Abstract

Regarding the goal aspect of our course we tried to find some good problems which we could develop with much effort so that we could gain, as much from our course that will be milestone in my future professional life. In developing the system we came in contact with many persons related with this field. This experience which we have acquired while developing this system will prove to be a backbone in our future life. Keeping this thing in view we decided to develop a software package for CAM PRO, which would enhance the efficiency of manipulation and updating in all information. The software development is complete and can always be developed in different versions. Year after year this software can be developed or additional facilities can be added to it.
